

FISHING IN AN AQUARIUM

From my childhood I have heard this expression: Aquarium Fishermen. I have often witnessed my spiritual leader utter this phrase with a feeling of sadness and indignation, but what is an aquarium fisherman? How do they act? These abominable beings should be banished from the congregations of the righteous. For them is like shooting fish in a barrel.

Aquarium fishermen is an expression related to Christian leaders lacking capabilities, devoid of Christian ethics and the knowledge of the things of God. They dare to create new “works of God” (Churches) using cleverness and subtlety as tools: in fact, these beings cease to be fishermen of men and become "gospel fish farmers".

They like to fish converted people who are members of other groups. Aquarium fishermen are strategic, true promoters of parties and get-togethers where special guests are invited who are members of other churches. The guests are proselytized and persuaded to leave their churches for a new idea (the new “little” church). Not to mention the boldness, the audacity and the lack of elegance in thinking that everyone should consider and have communion with their attitudes.

Aquarium anglers are home-visiting specialists, involuntarily inviting people to join in, literally rod fishing reeling in new converts. These specialists have good oratory, explore gifts of performance, prophesy blessings—they usually have a good pattern to follow.

Aquarium fishermen acquire believers with the most diverse problems, spiritual diseases and illnesses: disciplined, spiritually sick, sinful, troubled, lacking submission, rebellious, disloyal believers, and without any qualms they are placed in a leading position so that the fish will not escape to another aquarium. The aquarium fisherman has a vision for financial and numerical growth, these are true fragmenters and dividers of the kingdom of God, where what matters most is beings known as pastors and presidents of something.
